What's New In AutoCAD?

A new command, Draw Curves, gives you a quick way to draw a closed curve, like the interior contour of a building. (video: 2:06 min.) The newly designed Markup UI, part of the Markup features, has a simplified user interface and lets you select a region of a drawing to make changes without having to switch to the command bar. (video: 1:19 min.) The new annotations UI, a part of the Markup features, lets you add graphics, text, lines, or arrows to your drawings. Select a text style and add text or arrows. (video: 2:10 min.) New Project Templates: Personalize your home, school, or office projects with new templates. Two new project templates include a school homework template and a special project template for houses. (video: 1:02 min.) The Project Scheduling tool lets you complete major projects faster by providing an organized framework for organizing your work. (video: 2:04 min.) New Customizable Color Palette: Save and recall color selections. Add custom colors to your palette using predefined color swatches. (video: 1:30 min.) The new color swatches display color names, RGB numbers, and HSL numbers. To choose a custom color, click the swatch. A pallet preview displays next to the swatch, showing the colors of the selected swatch. (video: 2:06 min.)
